These days it is hard to find any industry that doesn't require a given amount of legal advice. Unfortunately, if you are not a legal practitioner yourself, it's easy to fall short of the knowledge it takes to confidently understand the legal requirements and processes to give you security and peace of mind in your business, investments, and other ventures.

Whether your query involves understanding leasing agreements, loan agreements, dispute resolution, property advice or the requirements for setting up a new business, or any form of legal advice, Segal Lawyers have the answers you seek.

With over 20 years of legal expertise, founder and director of Segal Lawyers, Nicole Segal's primary objective is to educate her clients to feel encouraged and protected in their endeavours. Known for their proactive approach, the firm often takes the initiative to help clients understand the finer details and nuances of their matter. That is, rather than simply answering the primary questions that have been presented to them, they also take the time to make sure that clients fully understand other key elements which they might not yet have considered or been made aware of.

Offering tailor-made solutions that specifically pertain to individual needs, the team at Segal Lawyers understands that every client, every business, and every situation is different, and should be treated as such.

“Our job is to understand our clients’ businesses and we operate like our clients’ legal counsel which allows us to respond accordingly when they need us,” says Nicole Segal.
